

BROOK FARM STABLES PONY CLUB SUMMER TRIPS

Wednesday 5th August 2009

In addition to our tour of The Household Cavalry, the Changing Of The Guard and Lunch in St. James' Park, we have provisionally booked a private tour of The Royal Mews at Buckingham Palace, to finish off our day in London.

The Royal Mews houses a collection of royal coaches and carriages, it is responsible for the Queen and Her family when travelling around London on official business. The Gold State Coach last used in 2002 for the Queens Golden Jubilee.

A fine working stables, the staff carry out their day to day tasks, while open to the public. The home of the working horses the Cleveland Bays and the Windsor Greys, which the Queen names each horse personally.
